The value of advertising was brought home rather forcibly to one of our business men lately. An error in a report of one of the council meetings held a short time ago stated that J. E. Findlay had been appointed constable. The report should have read J. C. Imlay. Mr. Findlay says he did not know there was so many readers of the Pioneer until lately.

Miss G. M. Rieder is again occupying the millinery parlor above the Reitzel & Kalbfleisch stand and is preparing for a grand opening on March 24th.

The Fire Brigade had a run on Wednesday afternoon, the cause being a stack of hay catching fire near a barn on Mr. Eph Shantz's place southeast of town. The barn contained 3000 bushels of grain. Outside of burning the hay no damage was done to the barn although a corner caught fire once. Fire Chief Liewen ordered one of the chemical engines to the scene of the fire and the members of the brigade with others soon overcame all danger.

FOR SALE—Team young mares in foal, also some nice steers. P. P. Johnson, 3 1/2 miles southeast of Oids, Alta.

The Hog Industry

J. Edmonson of Sterlingville brought in a lot of hogs to market last week which brought him the handsome sum of $1052. The average weight of the hogs was 202 lbs.

The above paragraph is full of meaning to those who are in the business of raising live stock. There is no better money maker today in this country than hog-raising in the right way.

The Political Situation

There is not a great deal of change in the political situation at Edmonton since last week. Attorney-General Cross has again resumed his place in the Cabinet and both the opposition and the government brought in motions for the appointment of a Royal commission to enquire into the A. G. W. deal. The government motion for the commission states that it will enquire into the fact of whether any person connected with the government or legislature were pecuniarily interested in the deal.

A vote of want of confidence in the government by the opposition last week showed that two members who had formerly supported the government had gone over to the opposition, the vote being twenty in favor of the government and seventeen for the opposition.

Senator Talbot, President of the Alberta Liberal Association, arrived in the Province on Sunday last and it is thought he will take a hard line in straightening out matters.

Cheap Lumber

There is quality in lumber, do not forget that. Poor lumber means a cold crude house, difficult to live in, difficult to rent, and difficult to sell. I carry cheap lumber suitable for some purposes, but the kind you want in your house I make a specialty of. My best grades I store in weather proof sheds. Did you ever consider how much your carpenters time cost you to work up poor lumber. I am not advertising any cheap sale but I sell cheap always. Quick sales and small profits is my motto. Have you seen that shipload I am selling at $20.00 per M? Have you seen those boards at $18.00 per M? I carry a complete stock of lumber. Any carpenter time cost you will find in my yard. No cash deposits required. You get what you see and buy and both quality and satisfaction is guaranteed.

If you contemplate building, call and see me. I can figure on that plan and tell you what it will cost any time.

Could Have Been Avoided
Mrs. Newich was growing accustomed to power. She enjoyed it, and was not at all when any one proposed to suffer from her in opinion. When the sailing party of which she had been a member, landed on the shores of the lake, rain-soaked and frightened. Mrs. Newich was the only one who cared to talk.
"It could all have been avoided if that captain had come as I told him," she said, between the clatter of her teeth, as the party stood huddled under a small shelter.
"When I saw that cloud coming from that corner of the lake I said to him, 'I think you'd better make straight for home, and not spend any more time fishing,' but he paid no more attention than if I hadn't spoken."

SPRING SKIN TROUBLES
Pimples, Eruptions and "Spotty Complexions."
At this season, scores of people—girls and young women especially—suffer their faces disfigured by pimples, dark spots, eruptions, etc. The skin needs attention—needs renovating. By trying time it has passed through during the winter. Just think what it has gone through! You have been out in rain and sleet and snow. You have been at one moment perspiring from skating, or some other exertion. Then you have stood to "cool off." You have spent hours of the day indoors at a temperature equal to summer heat. Then you have covered up your skin—except your face—and gone out into a temperature way below zero. No wonder that, with all these changes, the skin of the face and neck shows signs of needing attention.

Don't forget that the skin has to do work just as any other organ of the body, and if you overwork it, it gives out. Zanthox is the remedy. Stimulates the skin, gets rid of the eruptions, the yellow patches, at night, and gives back quickly your natural complexion. As the rich, refined, herbal essence sink deep into the tissue, the hard, scaly patches are removed. Better color results. The cells of the skin become transparent. The blood beneath is able to impart a proper coloring to the tissue, and the delicate bloom of youth reappears the softness and pallor of disease.

Zanthox is also of great use for skin injuries and diseases. Eczema, skin chaps, ringworm, acne, yield to its use. For cuts, burns, bruises, children's rashes, etc., it is unequalled and it is a sure cure for piles, hemorrhoids and stoma at 50c a box. Zanthox, Co., Toronto, for price. Beware of harmful substitutes and imitations.

Sleeping Draughts and Soothing Mixtures
A mother should never give her child a sleeping draught, soothing mixture or any of any kind except on the advice of a doctor who has seen the child. All these things contain poisons and an overdose may kill the little one. When you give your child Baby's Own Tablets, you have the guarantee of a government analyst that this medicine does not contain any portion of opium, morphine or narcotic and cannot possibly do harm—but always do good. The Tablets promptly cure all stomachic troubles and teething troubles, and give healthy natural sleep. CURE MEN AND WOMEN ALIKE

WHAT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS DID FOR ONE FAMILY

Cured Chas. Bell of Rheumatism and His Wife of Inflammation of the Kidneys—Mrs. Bell's Statement.

North Range, Ditch Co., N.S. (Special)—That Dodd's Kidney Pills cured the Kidney pills of men and women alike is shown in the cases of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bell of this place. A short time ago Dodd's Kidney Pills cured Mr. Bell of Rheumatism from which he had suffered for a number of years. He told me to try them for inflammation of the Kidneys and she in less than a week was cured. "I was troubled with inflammation of the Kidneys for twenty-four years. Some few weeks ago I felt worse and was laid up for a long time. When I was able to be up again the doctor told me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I suffered from Dr. Williams' and my feet would swell so I could not wear my shoes."
"My husband benefited so much from taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I decided to give them a trial, and though I have taken only three boxes I am well and can wear my shoes and to nearly all my own housework. I cannot say too much for Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills make weak Kidneys strong and sick Kidneys well. The woman's bits for Spring are larger than ever. How can the red-headed girl justify herself? Will she not be hiding her light under a bushel?

THE KIND THAT PLEASES THE PEOPLE!

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

MADE IN CANADA.

E.W. GILLETTE CO. LTD. TORONTO, ONT.

When you see this Trade Mark on any Medicinal or Toilet Preparation you purchase, it is an assurance to you that every ingredient entering into that preparation is of the highest quality that money can procure. What is even more important, it is an assurance that these ingredients have been compounded, according to the best formulae known, by expert chemists of long experience, in the employ of one of the largest and most successful drug firms in the world, the National Drug and Chemical Company of Canada.

As you have probably noticed, "N.D.C." is made up of the first parts of the words "National Drug Company". It is pronounced "NA-DRU-KO", with the accent on the second syllable.

What the Law Says
For the protection of the public the law of each Province in Canada states that only thoroughly qualified men are allowed to dispense prescriptions. These men being physicians or graduates of recognized Colleges of Pharmacy.

The logical conclusion is that as the laws are made by the representatives of the people, the people want protection, and should welcome the opportunity of being able to procure in any part of Canada the NA-DRU-CO line of medicinal and toilet preparations, compounded by expert chemists from the purest and best ingredients, and guaranteed as a mark of our standing.

When you see the NA-DRU-CO Trade Mark, you have this opportunity and the guarantee for which you are looking.

Source of the NA-DRU-CO Formulas
The National Drug and Chemical Company of Canada, Limited, acquired the business and equipment of the honorable traditions of 21 of the largest wholesale drug firms in Canada, from Halifax to Vancouver.

All of these firms had long and successful careers, some of them fifty to one hundred years, and during their existence they had accumulated a splendid list of formulae which all became the property of the "National". After giving these formulae careful study and practical tests for several years we have now brought out, based on the NA-DRU-CO line of about twenty medicinal and toilet preparations. All the ingredients in these preparations are the best and purest that money can buy, and they are compounded by a staff of expert chemists, each of whom ranks high in his profession.

We have much implicit confidence in NA-DRU-CO Preparations that we offer them with

A Four-Fold Guarantee
The first Guarantee is the fact that the NA-DRU-CO Trade Mark. The National Drug and Chemical Company of Canada, Limited, is one of the largest wholesale drug firms in the world, having a Paid-up Capital of over Five Million Dollars. We have wholesale branches in the principal distributing centers in Canada so that you can at all times satisfy yourself that there is such a firm. We are the largest buyers of drugs and do the greater part of the wholesale drug business in Canada. We employ a staff of about one hundred people and distribute in salaries, dividends and other

Men who make newspapers sometimes believe that their profession is an exacting one. They are wrong. Making a newspaper is an easy trick anybody can do. A lawyer with only a diploma and a brass sign, who would lose a suit even if the other side was ready to confess judgment, will tell you how to run a newspaper. A physician who would send his patient to the morgue before the prescription has been filled will know all the fine points of making a newspaper. An actor who has never earned any other plaudits than a soft tomato or an over-ripe hen fruit will give instruction in handling the world's news. Any old lady who knows enough to get off a street car backwards has positive opinions on the press. Even a society person who has never paid anything but a call or made anything but a visit or did anything but a tailor knows how stupid these men are who write "stories," edit "copy," wrestle with heads that won't fit and get the paper out on time. One reason for the universality of perfection in this trade, among those who do not work at it, is that everybody has been employed in it. It is a most unusual thing to meet a man who, when the occasion seems right, will not say "I used to be a newspaperman myself." Every time a man works his country editor for a puff on the strength of a big turnip or a prize potato he graduates in journalism. When he writes a "piece" for the "Squash County Clarion" about a most enjoyable entertainment he completes his post-graduate course, and when he writes a communication to the editor on both sides of the paper he becomes a third degree member of the Tribe of Scribes. That so many men have abandoned literature for the law, medicine and other easy walks of life, simply shows that many men would rather fail in one thing than another. Ex.

CHAPTER XXVII.

A HAPPY MEETING IN THE STUDIO.
His days for twenty years had long ago passed into a memory. He was married now and had a wife and children whom he dearly loved. But as Faith went on and made her errand to him clear he thought back in silent wonder at that time when Malcolm Kirk had crossed the ocean with him and he had thoughtlessly made the sketch which meant so much now to more than one person.

"And I've come here now," continued Faith as she continued the story of her experiences, "to see if you would give me a letter of introduction or a recommendation to some place where I could do the work that I feel that I ought to be doing. I'm very proud. I don't mean that I am in any way ashamed of the housework I have done. I am proud with sudden color—that I am sure I can do something different, something that the world needs more. Sometimes when I look at a picture like that I feel as if I could in time paint something almost as good."

Francis Raleigh bowed, and a pleasant smile came over his face. Not all the praise from the art critics of his picture had gratified him so much.

"If I could get a permanent position somewhere, I know I could work up into a place of usefulness. I can do the retouching, and I like to do it. And in time I might have a studio of my own. There are several successful women photographers here."

"That's true, and I know one or two of them," said Raleigh thoughtfully. He never knew how much it had cost Faith to ask him what she did. She had no foolish pride that some girls have, and Malcolm Kirk had always taught his own children as well as others that sometimes the most manly or womanly thing one can do is to receive help to help oneself, but Faith would never have come to Raleigh for such assistance if she had not been sure that she must have some friendly aid in the great city before she could do what she felt she must do in order to clear the debt due at home as well as herself.

There was silence in the studio for a moment. Then Raleigh said while the smile on his handsome face lighted up like sunshine:

"How would you like to work in Miss Varney's studio at present?"

"It would be a beautiful place!" cried Faith with enthusiasm. She knew the famous studio which the richest people in the city patronized, and she had even been out to it twice to solicit or dork, but each time had failed to get anything. It was an ideal place, and she could not but feel that if Raleigh knew anything of her experience there.

"Miss Varney is a niece of my wife," said Raleigh, smiling at Faith again.

"Suppose, instead of writing you a letter of introduction, I go out there with you and introduce you in person?"

"That would be beautiful!" cried Faith. Then she grew suddenly shy again and gazed at the artist half fearfully, as if she felt she might have trespassed somewhat on her knowledge of his old time affection for her mother.

Raleigh seemed to read her thought.

"My dear girl," he said, with a smile that set Faith's mind forever at rest, "perhaps you know that once I thought very much of your mother, but she gave her heart to a better man, for which I have never repented her. How the years have gone since then!"

He was silent suddenly, and his face grew thoughtful. "Let us see. We shall have time to get out there this afternoon. I am at your service. Good-bye to the kitchen and welcome the reason you are fitted for. At the same time, I envy the people you are working for. If you are anything like the cook your mother used to be," he laughed so delightfully that Faith joined him, and neither of them heard a step in the other room and did not know any one had come in until Malcolm Stanley stood at the entrance gazing at them.

Raleigh had risen and had had his palette and brushes down. At sight of Stanley he exclaimed, "Come in, young giant, and let me introduce some one you ought to know."

"Miss Kirk," said Raleigh, with an emotion he did not try to conceal, "this is Mr. Stanley—Malcolm Stanley—whose likeness I have so faithfully reproduced on the canvas before."

Malcolm and Faith faced each other in silence, and then Faith put her hand.

"Will you shake hands with a hired girl, Mr. Stanley, for father's sake?" she said half shyly, half in the manner she had inherited from Malcolm Kirk.

"Will it?" cried Malcolm Stanley. The way he shook Faith's hand assured everybody that he had no hesitation on the score of Faith's position. They had all three been suddenly smitten with unusual sympathy, and Malcolm's energetic handshake made Raleigh laugh. Faith followed, and Malcolm joined in the exclamation that the sudden meeting passed into question and answer.

"It's a long way from the deck of that steamer to this studio," said Malcolm Stanley. "But truth is stranger than fiction at least on my fiction I ever read." And then he went on to give Faith some account of the life since the time when Malcolm Kirk had left him with his aunt in London.

"The aunt had died when he was 2 years old, and he had been adopted by the family of a distant relative, taking the name of Malcolm at his aunt's request in loving memory of his governess. The money that Kirk had raised on board the steamer had been fortunately invested. On coming of age this fund enabled the young man to fit himself for an education. He had risen steadily and had at last been promoted to a place of great responsibility. The company for which he worked had investments in the United States, and Malcolm had come over to superintend the opening of some mines in Colorado and New Mexico. His business interests had made him acquainted with Mr. Fulton, and it was through him that he had made the acquaintance of Mr. Raleigh and finally purchased the picture, with the intention of giving it to Malcolm Kirk. The artist had insisted on practically giving a large share of the value of the picture to Stanley, and the latter had planned a surprise for Kirk on his way west."

All this and more did Faith hear wonderfully. The about water day was going by, and Raleigh suddenly interrupted the conversation.

"We shall have to give up our trip to Glasgow today, Faith."

"And I must be getting back to my work," cried Faith, rising. She was like one who had been in a dream of the day. It all seemed so strange—the studio, the artist, the picture, the big, hearty, honest young Englishman. He found it hard to realize that she was actually in the heart of the great, rushing, prosaic, selfish city. All this was so like a story, like things one reads about, but so seldom knows in the real life.

"If your father were only here now," said Raleigh, whose romantic temperament was moved deeply by the events of the day, "this room would contain all the elements of a genuine story."

As he spoke they all three turned instinctively toward the entrance of the other room. There stood Malcolm Kirk, his tall, heavy figure filling up the opening and his homely, loving face showing unusual emotion.

"Father!" cried Faith, and the next minute she was in his arms, sobbing and exclaiming.

Then she stepped back, a little ashamed of her sudden outburst as she remembered the presence of the two men behind her, but she kept hold of Malcolm's hand and drew him into the studio.

"How did you come here, father? We had no idea—"

"It was a long story, my dear," said Malcolm.

"Mr. Raleigh, how do you do? It's a long time since I saw you on the deck of that steamer."

Malcolm pointed to the picture, and still his great brown eyes rested on Malcolm Stanley, who was standing there pale and excited.

Raleigh took Kirk's hand and shook it heartily. He then turned quickly to Stanley.

"You ought to know this gentleman, Mr. Kirk. You met him before I did."

Kirk stepped toward Stanley. Both men were deeply moved.

"You were with my mother when she died, Mr. Kirk," said Stanley in a voice that trembled a little.

"If we were Russians, we would embrace each other now," cried Malcolm Kirk; "but as you are an Englishman and I am an American I suppose a handshake is the nearest we can get to it."

As he said it he grasped Stanley's big palm, which went out to meet his, and Raleigh said afterward in his sure he heard the bones snap, but neither man winced.

"The heart goes with it," said Malcolm Stanley, admiring Kirk out of his honest face with a loving look.

Kirk drew back a little and gazed at the stalwart young figure. Then he glanced at the painting.

"I would not like to take the contract of holding you in my arms now, as I did then. But, as I remember, you were a very good baby."

"So he is now," said Raleigh, who had turned his face toward the easel to hide his emotion.

That made Faith laugh, and the rest joined her, and the tension of feeling broke, and they all grew more at ease. For several minutes questions and answers were asked in the low, soothing studio.

"Father, you must give an account of yourself. The rest of us know our way to be here. But your presence is a mystery," said Faith, drawing up closer to him.

"Well, my dear, it was your letter that brought me."

"My letter?"

"Yes, the one you wrote Sunday. Your mother was very anxious about you. You did not mean to tell us, but we read between the lines that you were having experiences," as you call them. Besides, a check came for one of my stories that morning, and I felt the need of a little vacation and came on to Chicago to study the 'third girl problem' and other sociological experiments."

Life on Fourpence a Day.

A better example of the sell-made man could not be found than Hon. A. A. Kirkpatrick, the new Agent-General for South Australia. About fifty years ago circumstances caused his mother to emigrate with her two children to the New World. Mr. Kirkpatrick, who was twelve years of age at the time, commenced duties in Australia at a printing office, receiving the sum of five shillings a week. "In those days," he said to have remarked, "I used to add myself sixpence a day for food, but actually lived on fourpence a day, spending the remainder on books."

The Size of New Zealand.

New Zealand comprises 66,500,000 acres, of which about 17,000,000 acres are still covered with forest. It is estimated that there is enough timber to last the saw-millers about thirty five years.

125 Preparations Under One Trade Mark.

A most striking example of the growth of the Trade Mark idea in Canada is being witnessed for the first time today in the newspapers throughout the Dominion. It is the NA-DRI-CO line of about one hundred and twenty-five tablet and medicinal preparations, compounded by the National Drug and Chemical Company of Canada, Limited.

All these preparations bear the NA-DRI-CO Trade Mark, the shield with the red cross prominently displayed, and to make the line still more distinctive each article is attractively dressed in a pleasing shade of red.

In their first advertisement, which appears on another page in this issue, The National Drug Company feature this Trade Mark. They point out some of the important advantages to every Canadian of the NA-DRI-CO line, which is easily recognized line, covering practically every household need in the way of toilet and medicinal articles, and guaranteed by a responsible firm.

The National Drug Company guarantee that every NA-DRI-CO preparation is compounded by qualified chemists only, and from the purest drugs. As a proof that the formulae are such as the best physicians would use, they make a unique offer to completely disprove the claims which often creep into one's mind with regard to medicinal preparations.

Their "Money Back" offer helps still more to inspire confidence in the NA-DRI-CO line, whose variety and completeness is shown by the partial list given in their advertisement.

A curious illustration of oriental prejudice was recently afforded in the experience of London banks having occasion to forward large sums of gold coin to China. It was ascertained that the Chinese would accept no sovereigns bearing the famous St. George and the dragon on the reverse side, as the dragon plays an important role in matters religious in the Flower Kingdom, and its representation on the English coins is abhorrent to the Celestial mind. The London consignees were therefore obliged to select other coins, bearing on the reverse side a shield instead of the aforementioned dragon. A queer result of this is that the older coins are now quite scarce in Great Britain, only about 5,000 remaining in general circulation. Thus it may be that at some future time the British government may have to mint a special variety of sovereign for shipment to the orientals, a variety that shall in nowise offend the susceptibilities of those delicate nations.

Indigestion Cured

This disease from which so many suffer gives the average physician a great deal of trouble. The best medical men have endorsed PSYCHINE, and recommended it in scores of the most obstinate cases. It has never failed in a single instance to give prompt relief. When directions have been followed, a few doses will remove that tightness and weight on the stomach. Taken regularly it positively cures General Diarrhea, Flatulency, Nervousness, Coated Tongue, Heart Burn and Palpitation. If you have never used PSYCHINE, don't hesitate a moment longer. Try PSYCHINE to-day.

PROOF

Mr. Arthur Tansley, 35 London Street, Toronto, says: "For six or seven years I was troubled with indigestion and dropsy. Too much acidity of the stomach the doctors said, originated the trouble. I tried scores of remedies without avail. Eventually I used PSYCHINE and this brought immediate relief and cure."

NO HOME SHOULD BE WITHOUT PSYCHINE

It prevents the children taking cold, wards off that terrible malaria, La Grippe, and completely restores them against disease. It should always be used for colds, weariness, loss of appetite, headache and weak lungs.

Queen's Own Rifles

Several thousand of former members of the Queen's Own Rifles will assemble from all parts of the continent at Toronto next June, for a reunion in celebration of the semi-centennial of the regiment. The festivities will commence Saturday, June 18th, with a reception at Government House, His Honor, the Lieutenant Governor, like many other notables, being an ex-member of the crack regiment. On Sunday a monster church parade of ex-members and the present members will be a unique affair. During the week grand historical pageants on a scale only equaled at the Queen's tercentenary will be given by several thousand performers on the Rosebald athletic grounds. In addition there will be numerous social meetings of old comrades.

In nearly every town and city in the Dominion and in many in the United States and elsewhere are men who have served in the Queen's Own, and the semi-centennial committee is desirous of getting in personal touch with as many of them as possible. To that end it will greatly facilitate matters if the ex-members who see this will at once communicate with the permanent secretary, Mr. G. I. Riddell, 36 King Street East, Toronto, and prevail upon all the other ex-members they know to do the same. Mr. Riddell will promptly send them particulars.

Encouraging Tree Growing

A commendable scheme is on foot now to beautify the plains of the West and at the same time provide a useful feature for the settler. Senator Davis has introduced a bill in the Senate to amend the Dominion Lands Act so that tree culture may be made a fulfillment in part of homestead duties. The bill proposes that within areas judged by the Governor-in-Council suitable for tree culture, if any settler upon applying for patent can prove that there are on his homestead 1,000 healthy trees, planted by him, of not less than one inch diameter, this shall be taken in lieu of one half the cultivation otherwise required. The purpose apparently is to give some inducement to the development of timber posts in parts of the country suitable to tree growth. It might result in the creation of wind breaks and timber plots designed rather to modify climate than to produce merchantable timber. Even this would be well worth doing. It is now admitted that the presence of timber does modify climate in many ways, and the creation of even small groves throughout the prairie country would undoubtedly do something noticeable in the way of tempering the extremes of heat and cold and of conserving the moisture supply.

The evenings are growing long and cold. An easy chair and a paper beside the heater begin to look good. It is time to decide what papers to take; we say papers, for the time is past when the farmer is satisfied with one periodical in his home. Here is an offer that will interest you now, and meet the needs of readers of both sexes, young and old, during the long winter months when the papers have become family friends.

There is the Weekly Free Press and Prairie Farmer with the news of the world and live departments for the farmer, his wife and the young people; The Nor-West Farmer, issued twice a month, the recognised farm paper of the west; The Western Home Monthly, full of bright stories and interesting information for every member of the family.

half the Watches that people carry are not doing their best work.
Not cleaned or thought about maybe for years how could a watch be expected to render good service.
I am soliciting your watch work and am able to render you unquestioned satisfaction.
And by doing this I do more than give you accurate time keeping, I add years to the life of your watch.
This is worth the cost.

TO HAIR DRESSERS

A Splendid Hair Tonic that Makes Beautiful Hair

Every hair dresser should know about Parisian Sage. It is the quietest hair dressing that does just what this paper tells you it will do.
Parisian Sage is a most delightful and different hair dressing, a fact that will be recognized the moment it is applied to the scalp. There is not a particle of stickiness in it, it is not greasy, it has a delicate and refined odor, and is a truly invigorating tonic that will make hair grow, if the hair root still shows the least sign of life.
Try a little of Parisian Sage. It will brighten up the hair in two days.
Parisian Sage is guaranteed by H. W. Chambers to cure dandruff, stop falling hair and really rich in two weeks, in money lock. It is particularly in demand by women of refinement, who desire soft, luxuriant hair that commands admiration. Price so large a bottle sent by H. W. Chambers or direct, all charges prepaid, from the Canadian makers, the Virox Mfg. Co., Port Erie, Ont.
